Development Lessons from Water Management

The Global Water Partnership launched its Partnership for Africa's Water Development programme in 2004 to contribute to sustainable development and poverty reduction. Experience gained through the programme has yielded useful pointers to the key elements needed for managing a successful development planning process.